The beauty of nature translated in a beautiful story. Butterflies that were strategically placed to make a statement in contrast with the darkside of our environment.....

Original Art- Ethic

All of the specimens Madame Butterfly works with are raised on farms which help to preserve the valuable rainforest habitat by providing villagers an ethical income other than clearing virgin tropical rainforest. Raising insects to sell is sometimes the only incentive some indigenous people have to save the environment they live in. To make a living the indigenous people can either poach in the rainforest or sell their land for retrieving palm oil. In both cases the rainforest isn't preserved. With the farms there's an incentive to preserve the rainforest, because the farms need the flora and fauna of the rainforest. You can't farm butterflies without their natural habitat. The specimens are from butterfly and insect farms in Central and Southern America rainforest areas which breed for insect collectors around the world.

ARTIST: Carolien Bosch

In spiritual meaning the butterfly stands for change, freedom, love and transformation in the quality of life. To Carolien butterflies represent the blooming of the spiritual quality of life. Therefore she feels it's more than a privilege to work with them and turn their stories into an artform, bringing them back to life.

"Seeing the world through my eyes as a taxidermist and my passion for telling a story through my creations I got my inspiration for this theme by the colours and different structures. Everybody knows The Garden of Eden, it's a big inspiration for many creatives."

Fascinated by the idea of creating a hidden world, a safe place where the butterflies could explore their true selves. A world of different structures in combination with bold colours and flowers in full bloom

The strategic placement of the flowers and butterflies in random colours and shapes brings this world to life. Please enter and dream away.

She is an artist from Dutch-Italian origin making impressionistic oil paintings of landscape's. My inspiration comes from the countries towns and landscapes through which i travel, from small Italian villages to the European wetlands and everything in between. In my work the atmosphere of the landscape is much more important than the accurate representation of reality. I transform the landscape into a composition of shapes, lines, colors and contrast. By using bright pigments i create vibrant colors which will remind you of later work of William Turner, By modeling the paint and pigment in layers as if it where clay i sculpture very atmospheric, sometimes translucent, images so that the original landscape comes to life.

Hans Jochem Bakker

Hans Jochem Bakker (1948) is an autodidact of an old artist's family. Inspired by artists like Salvador Dalí, Miró and Picasso, he has taken over parts of their southern temperament in his theme, such as a special interest for birds, horses and women.

As spontaneously possible, honest, straight from the passionate artist heart. A rounded story does not even exist. Everything is moving, and that's also the main reason to continue painting.

In addition to the greater freedom and thus the ability to react immediately, to respond to what is happening, there is also space for attention to the composition, structure and material.
